One of Taiwan’s favorite events from the Olympic Games is synchronized swimming. It’s a women’s team sport in which the swimmers move through the water to music. The swimmers try to make it look easy, but they must be very strong, and they must be able to hold their breath for a long time.
Do you know this was originally a men’s sport? Women began to do what was then called “water ballet” around 1900. And it became an Olympic event in 1984.
1. The swimmers must be ___________. (選出錯誤)
   (1) strong (2) able to hold their breath (3) men (4) able to move with music.
